

Bespoke Joinery

Client: Harrow Library, University of Westminster

Main Contractor: Parkeray Limited

Architect: Rock Townsend

Hurst Joinery Projects delivered a bespoke joinery package as part of the transformation of Harrow Library. Silent study booths and high-backed armchairs sit alongside custom designed IT benches. The use of honest materials with bold geometric lighting and occasional highlights of colour makes the library an exciting place to read and study.

Rock Townsend

Tim Robinson, Project Architect said: 'The raw materials and soft furnishing give a studio feel, with splashes of colour helping to zone the spaces. It was also important to offer a variety of spaces for silent and independent study'.

Bespoke Joinery Scope of Works

- Perimeter Benching
- Private Study Tables
- Study Pods
- High Bench Tables
- Magazine Display Case - with glass top
- Lockable Book Display - with glass top
- Reading Lounge Benches

thehurstgroup.co.uk